

Get notifications from The New York Post
Click 'Sign Up' then 'Allow'

Dismiss

Sign Up

US NEWS

Bear that killed Arizona man in unprovoked attack wasn't sick or starving, leaving officials perplexed

By Katherine Donlevy

Published June 22, 2023, 8:03 p.m. ET 60

Necropsy results of bear that mauled Arizona man to death

EXPLORE MORE

NEWYORKPOST

LOG IN

Get notifications from The New York Post

Click 'Sign Up' then 'Allow'

TRENDING NOW IN US

Texas
Gon... burned to death after...

as Astronomer CEO...

Home
rapes inside

there — but a local zoo has a grisly solution

Hiker attacked by bear during 'surprise encounter' in Yellowstone National Park

The black bear that last week fatally mauled an Arizona man who was building his dream home was neither rabid nor starving, perplexed officials found.

The beast was found to be in “good condition with no apparent signs of disease,” according to Arizona Game and Fish Department necropsy results released Wednesday.

“An examination of the stomach found human remains consistent with the injuries found in the victim,” AZGFD wildlife veterinarian Dr. Anne Justice-Allen ruled.

“Additionally, native vegetation and seeds were found inside the bear. The amount of body fat on the bear indicated it was in good nutritional condition.”

NEW YORK POST

Before you go ...

NEW YORK POST

Before you go ...

Before you go ...

NEW YORK POST

Before you go ...

NEW YORK POST

Before you go ...

NEW YORK POST

Before you go ...

NEW YORK POST

Before you go ...

NEW YORK POST

Before you go ...

NEW YORK POST

Before you go ...

NEW YORK POST

Before you go ...

NEW YORK POST

Before you go ...

